

Minuets for September 24th, 2007.

Roundtable is tonight at 7pm. This is one of the three meetings we are required to attend in order to maintain our funding. Geoffrey has been so generous to attend.

After much difficulties, the password for our website has finally been changed.

Playing games has been proposed, BZFlag. Please send any comments/concerns.

We will play this Wednesday night at 9:00pm. Stay tuned to the forum for more details.

As it stands now, the meeting time will remain Monday at 5:30. Please contact Nathaniel with any concerns. If enough people would like to change we may re-evaluate the situation at a later time.

Please visit our website for a new calendar of LUGVCU events

A date for a demo day is tbd.

An idea was proposed to place an ad on facebook for our mid-october demo day. Votes will occur next week on the issue.

jkdefrag is recommended for people having difficulties instaling Linux. It can be used to move all files on a partition to one side of the hard drive, so re-partitioning can occur.

diskdump has been mentioned for people interested in erasing their entire harddrive.

Visit for fedora 7 information:

<http://www.rivalug.org/mediawiki/index.php?title=Fedora7>

GIMP will be a major topic next week, October 1st.

Creating a new CD containing only "free" software for the next demo-day has been discussed. Visit: <http://www.theopencd.org/programs> for information about the ISO we will use.